How the Kentucky Drill Helps

FOR the sake of your bank balance after you have sold your grain this fall, look into the possible earning power of a Kentucky drill on your farm this year.

What will it be worth to you to produce a crop of the highest grade instead of a possible medium or low? What is it worth to get safely through an extremely wet or dry season? Is a bigger yield of better grain an inducement to study Kentucky drill planting?

How much of an advantage is it to have your grain ripened all at the same time?
Is a saving of seed an advantage to you?
All these things and more, a Kentucky drill will help you to accomplish. There is no guesswork about it. Figures and facts beyond dispute prove that a Kentucky drill is one of the best insurance policies against loss in grain growing.
It will take almost no time for you to find out just what a Kentucky drill will do for you. Come in, or call us up and you will get full information about any point that is not clear to you.

FOR TRADE 240-Acre Improved Farm in Douglas Co., Mo.

This farm is about 6 miles south of Mansfield, and is about 2 miles from the inland town of Bryant, and about the same distance from a station on the new road from Mansfield to Ava. This farm is known as the Wright Beach farm, and is the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 9, the northeast quarter, and the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 16, all in township 27, range 15.

This farm is most all fenced hog-tight, and has many cross-fences, which separates the farm into many fields and pastures. A good portion of the fence is new woven wire, and the balance is rails. There is about 100 acres in cultivation which lays good, and is said to be the smoothest farm in that part of the country. The balance of the land is in timber and is extra fine. There is about 10 acres of orchard which is in bearing. 1 acre of alfalfa, and about 40 acres in wheat of which a good part was sown in grass last fall.

There is a good 4 room frame house painted white, "moke-house, chicken-house, large new hardwood barn, 40x60, with mow, good cistern, 2 good springs near the house, 1/2 mile of school, and in a well settled and well-farmed part of the country. I traded for this farm to put some of my people on it, but have changed my mind since, and will now sell the farm at a bargain.

If I can sell this farm in the next few days I will let it go at $25 per acre, and will pay 5% commission out of that price. There is a mortgage on this land of $1,330, that can be paid off or let run to suit the buyer. And I will still give better terms if the buyer cannot pay the difference above the mortgage in cash. I have heard people say the early bird gets the worm. So get busy and get this 5%, and let me hear from you regarding this sale by return mail.

I will trade this land at the above price for anything that I can use, and will be pleased to have your best offer for cash sale, or cash and terms, at any time that you may have an offer, as I am anxious to dispose of this land.

Jess Kisner, Garden City, Kansas
